Everybody said NO!

Once upon a time there was a big family called Mudd. One day Mrs. Mudd bought an apple tree in the market and brought it home. “Look at this lovely apple tree!” she said to her big family. “Would anybody like to help me to plant it in the garden? ”But everybody said no!

Mr. Mudd was very busy reading his newspaper. John and Sally were doing their homework. Dick was making a pirate ship. Betty was washing her doll. So Mrs. Mudd had to plant the apple tree all by herself.

In summer the sun was very hot and the earth was dry. The leaves on the apple tree began to go yellow. “Look at our poor little apple tree“ said Mrs. Mudd to her big family. “Would anybody like to help me water it?” But everybody said no! They all were very busy. So Mrs. Mudd had to water the little apple tree all by herself.

In autumn the apple tree was covered with big juicy apples. “Look at all the apples on our tree!“ said Mrs. Mudd. “Would anybody like to help me pick them?” But everybody said no! So she had to pick the apples all by herself. After that Mrs. Mudd made a wonderful apple pie. “Would anybody like to eat the apple pie?” she asked. “Oh, yes”, was the answer.
